Compliance Effectiveness in the Era of Increased Regulatory Enforcement

John A. Beattie, CPA, CFE Principal,
Healthcare Consulting Practice,
Parente Randolph, LLC

Steve Miller, Esq., Chief Compliance Officer,
Capital Health Systems

Significant regulatory enforcement initiatives are planned by the government in the coming months. Recovery Audit Contractors and Medicaid Integrity Contractors are the agents who will be using data mines and investigating exceptions to uncover fraud, waste, and abuse in Medicare and Medicaid. In addition, some states are deputizing private attorneys to help them root out fraud and abuse. Compliance effectiveness has always been important, and its significance has been heightened even further as a result of the evolving regulatory landscape. This audio conference will address which elements providers should be focused on to ensure they have an effective, results-driven compliance program. You will learn how to:

- Define effectiveness
- Use indicia and measures of effectiveness
- Conduct a compliance effectiveness evaluation using the “two by three” model
- Understand data mining and the evolving role of the compliance officer
